COMMANDING THE PACIFIC NAVY 1899-1901

Monday, August 17, 6:30pm

Historian Dr. Diana L. Ahmad discusses US Navy operations in the Pacific in the early 20th century. By 1900, the US took over control of two small islands in the Pacific Ocean, Guam and American Samoa. Captains Benjamin F. Tilley and Richard P. Leary ruled the islands with absolute authority. What separated the command styles of these two successful, yet very different leaders?
